

Learning from Our Mistakes: The Journey of Writing a “Land Acknowledgement”

Addison Keegan-Harris, Fernanda Lopez, Melissa Peterson

University of Kansas

As interest grows in land acknowledgement statements, many are unsure of where to begin. Online resources are informative, but don't tell the full story of Native peoples' history and contemporary experiences in a given place.

Presenters will share their journey of attempting to write a land acknowledgement, the challenges they faced, and the lessons they learned. Attendees will leave the session with recommendations and resources for exploring their own relationships with Native people and land.

Know the Land

What is a Land Acknowledgment?
A Land Acknowledgment is a formal statement that recognizes and respects Indigenous Peoples as traditional stewards of this land and the enduring relationship that exists between Indigenous Peoples and their traditional territories. Hear what it means to members of the Native American and Indigenous Peoples Steering Group at Northwestern here.

Why do we recognize the land?
To recognize the land is an expression of gratitude and appreciation to those whose territory you reside on, and a way of honoring the Indigenous people who have been living and working

Honoring Original Indigenous Inhabitants: Land Acknowledgment

Land acknowledgment is a traditional custom that dates back centuries in many Native nations and communities. Today, land acknowledgments are used by Native Peoples and non-Natives to recognize Indigenous Peoples who are the original stewards of the lands

A GUIDE TO INDIGENOUS LAND ACKNOWLEDGMENT

OCTOBER 22, 2019

Native Governance Center co-hosted an Indigenous land acknowledgment event with the Lower Phalen Creek Project on Indigenous Peoples' Day 2019 (October 14). The event featured the following talented panelists: Dr. Kate Beane (Flandreau Santee Dakota and Muskogee Creek), Mary Lyons (Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe), Rose Whipple (Isanti Dakota and Ho-Chunk), Rhiana Yazzie (Diné), and Cantemaza (Neil) McKay (Spirit Lake Dakota). What IS a land acknowledgement?

Land Acknowledgements are formal statements which articulate an awareness of Indigenous history and current presence in a given place.

Where might things go wrong?

Our Journey

(a.k.a our mistakes)

Mistake 1: Listing Tribes

- The nature of Native experience in this region
- Historical versus current contexts
- Relationships (or lack there of)

Mistake 2: Rushing

- Difference between Native and Indigenous
- Have we learned?
- We learned but from whom?
- Requiring a statement be made at all events, classes, etc.

Mistake 3: Copy and Paste

- Plagiarism is never good...Trust us, we know.
- Your institution has a land acknowledgement – does it resonate with you and your team?
- Does the top search result reflect the ongoing learning and action you are taking?
- Do you know how to pronounce everything?

Doing It Right

Our Learning Process

- Attending webinars
- Building relationships with Native people and leaders at KU
- Creating a real commitment and serving our Native people and leaders at KU
 - Learning more about how we can take steps to better serve
 - What areas need support; can we provide what's needed or advocate for the support?
- Moving away from Land Acknowledgment towards a Commitment to Native & Indigenous Populations and People.
- Asking for guidance prior to putting out a Land Acknowledgement that would have fallen short of our values and mission.

Balancing Education versus Performance

- Focus on commitment and what does that mean to you?
- Be prepared to guide others towards education even if that means correcting their current statements
- Allowing others to take the steps to learn
- Educate others on the harm they are causing by being performative rather than intentional

.....It Might Get
Worse

When I Return to Campus I Will....

- What is one action you will take after today to strengthen your individual commitment to Native people?
- What is one action you will take after today to strengthen your institutional commitment to Native people?
